Now that all of three per cent bonds have been called in and redeemed there are no obligations of the government that are subject to redemption until the four-and-a-half per cent bonds mature, which will be in 1891.

It transpires that about 27,000 British subjects living in Massachusetts. Since the Fenian hall muss, when several houses were damaged and the queen's jubilee local celebration was held amid a startling uproar around the "cradle of liberty," a movement has been begun to have these aforesaid thousands naturalized.

The Hawaiian loan just manipulated in London was issued by a syndicate that deducted $35,000 from the $200,000 borrowed for its commission and charges, and then paid themselves the interest due next January on the full amount. Shortly after the loan becomes due, British men-of-war will make their appearance as collecting agents.

It was a remarkable funeral procession that moved the other day with the body of the dead editor Katkoff to his tomb in Moscow. The devotion to him was such that during the funeral, over a hundred of the 200,000, the bias was not once laid on a carriage, but was borne by relays of relatives, students, journalists, mechanics, tradesmen and peasants. His hold upon the people was extraordinary, and his death was felt to be a public affliction.

John Chinaman has discovered that the libel laws of this country can be used effectively to annoy or punish those who criticize him adversely, and proposes to utilize the discovery. The Detroit Free Press stated that Sam Woo fought sparrows in his establishment, and Sam has now taken the United States Court and asked for $10,000 damages for libel. John is an apt learner of one of the most reprehensible practices of American scurrilousness.

Secretary Fairchild by his offer to prepay interest, to say nothing of his call for bids on the 4 1-2 per cent bonds, has wiped out all risk of a stringency from the accumulation of funds in the treasury until Congress meets, when Congress assemblies the reduction in revenue made necessary by the vigorous, immediate and unhesitating or February and March next will see a greater accumulation than ever unless the government expenditures shall be universally increased by enactments of that body.

In the August number of the North American Review is a paper by Wong Chin Foo entitled "Why I Am a Heathen." The writer, after some time spent in this country, has no doubt of the wisdom of still remaining among the heathen. "The only positive point," he says, "Christians have impressed on heathenism is that they would sacrifice honor, principle, as they do life, for—gold," and he concludes with an earnest and calm invitation to the Christians of America to join him in following Confucius.

It appears that the deposits in twenty-four savings banks in New York city alone have been increased by eight million dollars since the first of last January, while the number of depositors has also increased by seventeen thousand persons. Throughout the state the total increase in bank deposits for the same six months adds up to twenty millions. The savings banks constitute a better "anti-poverty society" than that of George and McGlynn, and so also do homesteads in city corners.

The prohibition vote in Texas, though many thousands short of a majority, was large enough to be highly respectable. It was confined to no party, race or nationality. Large numbers of Republicans, including the Germans and two-thirds at least of the colored voters, opposed the amendment, while a great many Democrats, under the lead of men like Robertson, Reagan and Maxey, voted for it. The letter of the law is against the measure, is said to have been instrumental in turning many votes.

The Castle Garden Commissioners resolved themselves into wise-hunters lately for the benefit of a German resident of Reading who believed that it is not good for man to be alone. The would-be Benedict asked for a wife, specifying that she must be about 28 years of age, tall, with about 150 pounds. Notwithstanding the fact that girls of that age seldom come up to that weight, one was found who filled the specifications to a nicety. Furthermore the said expressed herself satisfied with the man, and they were married after an acquaintance of half an hour.

It is just 100 years since the first newspaper was published west of the Alleghenies. It was established at Lexington, Ky., then Virginia, by John Bradford, a name already famous in connection with American newspaper enterprise. In the Magazine of American History has been recently published a full account of Bradford's enterprise and fac-similes of the Kentucky Gazette. Among the earliest advertisements appeared one to the effect that persons who subscribed for the new church could pay in cattle or in whiskey. It is a curious fact that the United States, just adopted, published by him in an early number.

An interesting instance of promptness in changing an editorial position has been furnished by the St. Joseph Gazette. There was a prospect that an immense packing establishment would be opened in St. Joseph, and the Gazette duly and happily congratulated the citizens. Suddenly it was decided to select another site for the business, whereupon the Gazette fervently remarked: "We do not believe that the addition of a few hundred beef-skinners, hog-scrappers, and the like, employed at the lowest wages, in the close communion of great hog and beef slaughtering houses, would be an element of society greatly to be desired in the fair city of St. Joseph."

A narrow escape from a serious accident happened at How's saw mill Wednesday. James Quinn, the gentleman who has charge of the edger, was standing near the machine when an inch board was caught by the saw and thrown with great force striking Mr. Quinn on the hip and side and knocking him down. He was taken home and a physician called but it was found that no bones were broken and he was soon in a comfortable condition although he will feel the effects of the shock for some time. It is a wonder that more serious results were not caused.

Two Souls With But a Single Thought.

Speaking of the pair of elopers who were arrested in Brainerd and held until the infuriated husband and a police officer could arrive from St. Paul, the Globe says:

In a rocky tenement in the rear of a saloon on the corner of Seventh and Kittson streets, Nicholas Fenran and his wife and two children have lived for several years. Nicholas is an old man now and has amassed a considerable bank account by frugal living and hard work. His wife is young and beautiful and was yesterday he worshipped her unusually and loved her dearly. To be sure he had noticed that a young fellow named "Jack" Priest, a dry goods clerk who boarded close by, frequently dropped in to chat with Mrs. Fenran, and sometimes took her riding in a street car, but Fenran was not a jealous-minded man, and these little attentions worried him not at all. Yesterday afternoon when he had left the house alone dinner, Mrs. Fenran put on her Sunday toys, let the children out to play after kissing them good-bye, and a carriage called and got away. Mrs. Fenran, who which she had packed in secret. The carriage drove down back streets to the depot, where the trunk was deposited.
Mrs. Fenran drove away to the Bank of Minnesota, where she drew out $250 of her husband's lawful money. She drove back and there met and gave her lover, the winsome young Jack Priest.
It was nearly 4 o'clock, and time for the overland train to leave on the Northern Pacific and Mrs. Fenran hesitated not at all, but went to the ticket window and planted down the price of two tickets to St. Paul, Cal. Then she saw and boarded the train, took a Pullman sleeper and bade good-bye forever to St. Paul and old man Fenran, with his money and children. Fenran returned home and grew uneasy over her extended absence. He waited as long as he could and went out to find the truth. He found it all in a very short order, and through Chief Clark the authorities at Brainerd were telegraphed a description of Priest and the train, where the trunk was, which bore them arrived at that point they were taken into custody.

shot his spouse.

The Fenran-Priest elopement ended in Fenran's death at 10 o'clock last night.
He evidently meant to kill, but he escaped with a hole in his cheek through the fortunate interference of a gold earring. Mrs. Fenran returned to the house her husband, in the ravine, at the west end of the East Seventh street bridge. Her husband came there last evening and gave her a "tongue lashing" that resulted in her fainting away. Her little sister ran for help and brought a cousin, a little young man who threw Fenran off of his horse bodily about 9:30 o'clock. In a half-hour he came back again, forced an entrance into the house, and found the wife lying in bed, attended by her thirteen-year-old sister. They had some words, and she refused to listen to him any more. She turned away from him and assumed a position lying on her left side and he turned toward him. As she turned away he whipped out a 32-caliber revolver and fired the muzzle within a foot of her upturned right ear, fired once and ran. By the merest accident the shot did not hit her, but it did hit a small gold earring which she wore and was deflected from its course, entering the cheek at the point of the lower lobe of the ear and making a course downward and a little inward, it came out of the cheek about an inch from the corner of the mouth, having passed only through the fleshy part of the cheek. The wound is painful, but not dangerous.
Fenran did not remain to know the result of the shot, but he ran through the window and fled in the darkness. The police were notified and Dr. Whitcomb was called. While the physician was dressing the wound Sergeant Swettler found the bullet in the bed-clothes, where it had fallen.

IT HAD BEEN SETTLED.

Mrs. Ellen Fenran and her run-away husband, Jack Priest, who were arrested at Brainerd, returned to St. Paul in charge of Sheriff Richter yesterday. County Attorney Egan declared that they could hold any criminal charge, and the pair were arraigned before Judge Cory in the municipal court for disorderly conduct. What the charges are, the bank of Minnesota, which Fenran claimed was his money. The sheriff found $17 on the person of Mrs. Fenran and $22 on Priest, and a compromise was effected whereby these two deeded this money to Rev. L. T. Hall, the pastor of St. Mary's church, where the Fenrans worshipped, to be held in trust as an educational fund for her two children, Mary, aged five, and Willie, aged two and half years. Judge Egan drew up the papers, which were duly signed and witnessed, and the case against the Fenrans was dismissed. Mrs. Fenran declared that she never would go back to live with her husband, and spoke tenderly of her husband, who, she said, "used to be like a gentleman." There were no tears shed, except by the children, who are to be under the care of their father.

The Weather Signs.

The white flag indicates clear or fair weather. The blue flag indicates rain or rain. The black triangular flag always refers to temperature and when placed above the white or blue flag it indicates warmer weather, when below either colder weather may be looked for.
When the flag is not hoisted at all, the temperature will remain stationary, or will not vary five degrees from the temperature of the same hour of the preceding day. The white flag with black square in center, indicates the approach of a sudden and decided fall in temperature. This signal is usually ordered at least twenty-four hours in advance of the cold wave. It is not displayed unless a temperature of forty-five degrees, or less, is expected. By watching the flag staff on top of the house you can tell what kind of weather to expect as the indications are received every morning and the flags are hoisted accordingly.

KNIGHTS OF LABOR.

Interesting Statistics Concerning Strength of this Powerful Order.

It is impossible to estimate closely the strength of the order of the Knights of Labor. Though all the trades unions are not organized in the order, there are thousands of men belonging to these separate bodies who are members of the common brotherhood. Naturally the Knights desire to keep their strength unknown to outsiders, lest by a knowledge of the full extent of the power which would have to be met, capital in some cases might feel justified in meeting a contest or in prolonging its resistance to their demands. There are said to be about five thousand local assemblies of the order in the country, and it is believed that a modest estimate would put the average membership at one hundred to each assembly.
Of course the number of local bodies number few members, but on the other hand there are many which contain several hundred on their rolls. Not less than five hundred thousand members may be credited to the order throughout the country; careful inquiries lead one to place the present maximum membership at over one million.

The strength of the order, however, is rapidly increasing; in fact, admission of new assemblies has been suspended for a while, because there is so much to be done in writing up the rolls of those recently organized, and, second, because the order does not care to weaken itself by admitting local trades which might tax the whole organization for support in a possible contest over unreasonable demands. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Amalgamated Iron and Steel workers are the two most powerful unions of laboring men in the country, but they are not as bodies, members of the Knights of Labor. The Knights are believed to be strongest in the Middle States. They are weakest in point of numbers, probably, in New England. Among the cities, New York without doubt furnishes the largest number to the order. There are fully fifty thousand members here, as nearly as can be ascertained. Throughout the country, the order is rapidly increasing, and the number of members is the largest number of members of the organization, and after them, in regular order, the car-drivers and the charcoal-burners. In New York City the quota of Knights furnished by the printers undoubtedly exceeds that supplied by any other class of wage-earners. The car-drivers are also strongly organized. Before this year is out these proportions will probably be changed. The telegraph operators are likely to be the outstanding body in the organization, and a strong effort is being made to make the railroad operators unite with their commercial brethren.
Active proselyting, moreover, is going on among the brakemen, gatemen, ticket-sellers, station men and every other employee connected with the railroads.

The order embraces many other than manual laborers. In the membership are merchants, employers of labor in numerous trades and manufactures, architects, physicians, newspaper men, and, more than might be expected, Congressional and State legislators and members of State and municipal governments. The Knights of Labor. The only business which is debarred from admission are those of the banker, stock-broker, lawyer and broker dealer. With regard to the business, the exclusion is so wide as to keep out all persons who derive any profit or income from the sale of inflicting damage on the public, and the members of the organization, and one of its fundamental principles is "equal pay for equal work." Inferentially the right of suffrage is conceded to wage-earners, and the median branch of the order recently adopted resolutions specifically favoring the extension of the ballot to female citizens. —N. Y.

A GREAT QUESTION.

The Kissing Affair which Agitates the Highest Circles of Continental Society.

"Did he kiss the Princess, or did he not?" is the important question that has been agitating German society lately.
The Vienna New Press says, "no," but the Baden-Baden journals, which may be supposed to contain the latest news of the court, say "yes." On the other hand, the New Press says that the lady herself, and she surely should know, has explained during the course of the Emperor of Austria, who has been staying at Baden, was walking in the Lichtenhagen Allee, accompanied by her daughter, the Archduchess Valerie, and her sister, the Countess Maria Theresa of Bourbon. The party were walking two and two, and the young Princess Maria, and the Emperor's and sister behind. A carnival procession came past, and the royal visitors stopped to look at it. Suddenly from the ranks of the procession a youth dressed like a circus clown darted forward, rushed among the spectators, threw his arms round the Princess Maria, and pressed at least to kiss her. Before the young lady had recovered from her surprise and indignation the man had regained his place in the procession, and the Emperor laughed the whole affair off as a seasonable joke. The clown, however, got himself arrested later on, and some other boisterous prank. He was taken before the magistrate and recognized as a journeyman baker; but as it appeared that he had no idea of the rank of the lady he had treated so lightly, he was dismissed with a reprimand and a caution. —London World.
